On May 4, 2019, Establishment Labs CEO and Founder Juan José Chacón-Quirós will participate in the Sixth Annual International Breast Surgery Workshop (IBSW) at the Ministry of Health in Rome, Italy.

Establishment Labs' CEO will join a panel of distinguished companies, faculty and key opinion leaders in global breast surgery to discuss recent updates from international regulators on the safety of breast implants. Professor Fabio Santanelli di Pompeo, President of IBSW, will moderate the panel discussion.

Establishment Labs extends its sincerest gratitude to the IBSW for the opportunity to partake in an important discussion around the recent developments occurring in the industry. Given the changing international regulatory climate, it is vital for industry leaders to work together to educate surgeons and patients on the risks and benefits of various breast implant options.

Establishment Labs is committed to women's health and meeting the global need for breast implant products that put safety first. Leveraging over a decade of R&D, Mr. Chacón-Quirós will showcase the enhanced safety profile of Establishment Labs' implant technologies, which is reinforced by the continued adoption of Motiva Implants®. Establishment Labs looks forward to sharing some of its latest innovations that demonstrate that its suite of differentiated Motiva® products is an answer to an industry that has yet to fully meet the needs of women.
